[REDACTED] The Comptroller--with your help--will be looking at various options to insure that the payment of salaries will not be affected and that we will have the flexibility to react in a timely manner should it appear that less than the full amount will be provided. [REDACTED]

3. Until the Comptroller has completed his review, I request that you continue prudently with your program but consider seriously the temporary delay of contractual arrangements, procurements which are not absolutely necessary, and nonessential travel. The Office of Logistics has been requested to review its current backlog of contracts and procurement requests in process to identify those on which action could be deferred without seriously affecting Agency operations. [REDACTED]

4. In the event that our supplemental funding is further delayed or cancelled, we expect to have some flexibility involving such things as use of the Reserve, reprogramming, and possible cancellation of certain procurement actions. Therefore, I believe we can continue with the major portions of our activities until the funding issue is satisfactorily resolved between the Executive Branch and the Congress. You may assure your staffs that we fully expect to continue salary payments and that pay checks will be unaffected by possible funding shortfalls.

5. If this situation remains unresolved after 10 September, I will ask the Comptroller to develop alternatives for dealing with it, which will be presented to the Executive Committee for consideration.
